

Audio Sets

This section lists several high-performance sets used in sound recording and reproduction.

The survey starts from reel-to-reel tape recorders made since the early fifties and includes several models up to the seventies, well in the solid state age. Audio amplifiers include some Marantz models and a vacuum tube homebrew type. Also included record players, phono cartridges, cassette decks, CD players, headphones and speaker enclosures.

In the future vinyl records will be added.