

BL-735 – Spark Gap

450A peak spark gap, similar to 1B45.

Derived from Westinghouse WX3240 prototype, characterized by cylindrical aluminum cathode and iron or nickel anode rod inside. The tube must be used in vertical position with the cathode aperture downward to leave aluminum droplets caused from sparks fall down, inside the anode cap.